Dear Miguel,

At your request, I am writing to confirm our experience using your essential oils.

When you unexpectedly contacted us, we were unsure if the symptoms such as headaches, itchy eyes, runny noses, irritability and insomnia experienced by members of my family were caused by our exposure to mold and mildew which had built up due to water leaks and other construction problems in our home. I was extremely skeptical when you advised my wife, Elaine, that the use of certain essential oils, diffused in our home, might help to alleviate our problems. Because of our discovery that we had a mutual friend, we permitted you to come into and "treat" our home.

Immediately after the treatment, while the house had a pleasant aroma, I did not notice any appreciable results, and in fact, when I spoke to you the next day, I told you that if I noticed any changes, I'd let you know. When our housekeeper came three days later, her first comment was, "What did you do to the house, I can actually breathe in it now."

After our housekeeper's reaction and observing the children, I did see that their symptoms, apparently caused by "sick building syndrome", had remarkably improved and did not reoccur for several weeks. We then requested that you again "treat" our home by spraying a light mist of your essential oils, and again, I was astonished that the headaches, itchy eyes, runny noses, irritability and insomnia had disappeared.

Because of the above, we have entered into an extended agreement for treatment of our house with your essential oils, and have invited my real estate associates to experience the use of the essential oils.

I am pleased to confirm our favorable experience with the use of your essential oils, and you may share a copy of this letter with anyone who is considering your service.

Very truly yours,

Kenneth J. Lowy
